Tiremetrix and TCS announce integration between TPMS Manager and Tire Power Software

DATE – Tennessee based TCS Technologies and Michigan based Tiremetrix, LLC have announced a new integration between the company's core software programs: TCS' Tire Power Business Management System and Tiremetrix TPMS Manager. Customers using Tire Power can now access TPMS Manager with the click of a button.

"By providing TPMS information directly at point of sale, tire dealers will become more confident and competent in their TPMS service and also extremely efficient," says Joe Donehue, President of Tiremetrix. "Additionally, our company is very excited to be included within the Tire Power system as it is the industry's leading Point of Sale solution for the tire and service retailer."

TPMS represents one of the fastest growing segments in the tire retail industry, and the service challenges faced by dealers are not a secret. TPMS Manager provides the industry's leading database of TPMS information, including TPMS relearn procedures, parts interchange, scan tool compatibility, troubleshooting, and tech support according to Tiremetrix.

"At TCS, we stand above the rest in providing our customers with efficient and effective tools and resources at the point of sale counter," says Barry Reese, President of TCS, "Adding the entire TPMS Manager product, and its powerful informational database, to the suite of resources available directly within Tire Power continues to solidify TCS as the most complete technology provider in the industry."

Current TCS customers can contact their support representative for more information related to TPMS Manager. For more information on TPMS Manager, interested parties can visit <http://www.tpmsmanager.com>.
